Team Assignment 4: Locating & Evaluating Scholarly Journal Articles

This assignment will introduce you to the fundamentals of locating and evaluating scholarly journal articles. In this assignment I will be looking to see that you are able to:

- continue to refine focus on a specific aspect, or aspects, of your topic
- search scholarly journal databases to effectively locate useful material
- use keywords and keyword phrases to construct a focused search and ultimately locate relevant information
- perform a search using appropriate Boolean operators, phrases, and other advanced search techniques to construct a well focused and narrow search to locate full-text scholarly journal articles that support your thesis statement and research questions
- select articles that directly support one or more aspects of your research topic
- use information according to ethical guidelines of information studies:
  - cite all sources using MLA style
  - appropriate use of paraphrasing, summarizing, or quoting
  - using information true to original context
  - distinguish between common knowledge and ideas requiring attribution
- explain in precise terms exactly what aspects of your scholarly journal articles will be useful in supporting your research questions and thesis statement
- explain how your selected scholarly journal articles support specific aspects of your thesis statement, research questions, and research focus
- evaluate your selected articles based upon specific criteria
- work in collaboration and cooperation with team members to complete all required tasks
- complete all assigned individual tasks
- apply effective communication strategies to accomplish team goals

Before working on this assignment, you should watch the relevant database tutorials & review the second part of Badke Chapter 5. You will be working with your team to locate and evaluate scholarly journal articles. You should also review the Types of Periodicals handout, Research Process handout, the Searching Databases Quick Guide or Detailed Guide, and keep the Evaluating Resources handout nearby as you will need it for this assignment. Please see team assignment rubric & teamwork rubric for more detailed criteria of how I will be assessing your work.

Many periodical publishers charge money for the information in their publications and libraries must subscribe to databases in order to access the content of these publications. As a result these types of databases are often referred to as subscription databases. One such database is called Academic Search Premier, which is a multi-disciplinary database produced by the EBSCOhost company. A multi-disciplinary periodical database includes articles from a wide variety of subject areas and academic fields.

Each member of the team needs to locate one (1) full-text scholarly journal article that addresses the narrowed topic focus, supports the argumentative thesis statement, and answers one or more research question. Please be sure your article is available full-text, is from a scholarly journal and that there is no overlap or duplication in article selection.

You must locate your article in Academic Search Premier, which can be accessed under “Complete List” on the Library’s home page.

Team members should closely scan their selected scholarly journal article and provide a justification & evaluation for each article selected. NOTE: You will see space provided below for up to 5 articles. Each team will have no more than 5 members, and many will have less, so please only use the number of boxes needed by your individual team. If one or more team member fails to complete their portion of the assignment, this will not affect the grade of the assignment (unless all members fail to contribute) but will affect the grade of the individuals who did not contribute.

One team member should take on the role of being responsible for communication, coordination, editing, proofreading and making sure the assignment is ready to be submitted to the appropriate Dropbox on time.

Getting this assignment completed successfully and on time requires coordination, collaboration, communication & cooperation. Plan your individual deadlines accordingly. All of the assignment coordination should occur in D2L Discussion.

It is imperative you communicate with each other in that space (rather than private emails or phone calls/texts) because part of your grade will be determined by your teamwork (see separate rubric for specifics) and I need to be able to observe how the team interacts with each other.

Post your content & contributions to D2L Discussion area first, and have one person be responsible for pulling it all together into the original assignment document. Please submit your final version of the assignment as a .doc or .docx file to the Dropbox by the assigned deadline.

For each resource selected, I will ask you to explain your search, analyze & justify your selection, and evaluate based on a specific set of criteria. Here is a more detailed explanation of what I'm looking for in each of those boxes.

Search strategy	Explanation of how and where you located the resource. Tell me exactly how you searched for each item, i.e., keyword, subject heading, or other type of search. Write down your exact search phrases, including any advanced search techniques such as Boolean operators or truncation. Tell me if you located any useful subject headings that lead you to other resources, or if the subject headings helped you refine or refocus your search strategy. Provide an explanation of your search approach to help me understand why you searched the way you did. I should be able to do your search and locate the same full-text scholarly journal article.
Analyze &amp; Justify	Once you have located a full-text scholarly journal article, you will need to analyze the contents and justify its relevance. Identify the specific sections that would be useful in supporting your topic. Tell me exactly how you could use the information in this scholarly journal article to support specific aspects of your topic focus, thesis statement and research questions. Do NOT just summarize the content but tell me which research questions it answers for you and how it helps you make your argument. Also tell me what information the resource provides that is unique and not provided by any of the other resources. Justify why you think each scholarly journal article is valuable for supporting your research topic and focus. Be very detailed in your explanation, referencing specific passages of article if appropriate. Some things to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• “Big Picture Assessment” limited to five or fewer sentences about why you think the resource is good for your topic</li> <li>• Research Questions answered or the connection to the Thesis Statement</li> <li>• Quotations from experts</li> <li>• Interesting case studies or examples that support your research focus</li> <li>• Descriptions of original research</li> <li>• Other important research or researchers cited in the article</li> <li>• Useful search terms for future research</li> </ul>

Team Assignment 4: Locating & Evaluating Scholarly Journal Articles

Evaluate	Evaluate your scholarly journal article based upon the criteria outlined in the Evaluating Resources handout <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Author</li> <li>○ Publisher</li> <li>○ Type of Information</li> <li>○ Purpose</li> <li>○ Sources</li> <li>○ Currency</li> <li>○ Style</li> </ul> Do not just tell me the author's name or the publisher's name—use the guiding questions provided in the handout to tell me what you know about the author and about the publisher and how that information leads you to conclude the source's credibility. Use the handout to guide you through the various listed criteria, use your own words, and cite any outside sources consulted.
